Dear Debra,

I needed to put a professional website together for my newly formed company at a competitive price, and an acquaintance mentioned Flash Monkey Web Design. After a short consultation, my requirements for a corporate identity and website were quickly formulated into an elegant concept. Where I had any suggestions, Flash Monkey were always quick and eager to accommodate them, so the final designs were completed in a very short space of time.

The overall process was straightforward from start to finish, and I now have a brand and web presence that easily sets me apart from competitors. I have no reservations in recommending their services.

Yours sincerely,

Martin O'Regan
